Mr. Suryanarayana Rao.—Resolutions are framed generally only in connection with the budget. We may be given power to pass such resolutions. We are not content with the usual reply of Government that the representation will be considered, but we want some definite action taken in the matter.

Dewan.—All your representations in this matter will be duly submitted to His Highness.

SUBJECT No. 68.

Amalgamation of the Representative Assembly and the Legislative Council.

Messrs. C. Vasudeva Rao and T. B. Mallegowda, Chikmagalud Taluk.

Summary of Representation.—The budget discussion and interpellations are common to both the institutions excepting the subject of Legislature. The laws passed by the Government of India are generally adopted in the State with modifications according to local requirements. The members of the Representative Assembly discuss the laws that are to be initiated by the Government in the State. Government may introduce the subject on any law that may have to be adopted in the State before the Dasara Representative Assembly. A Committee may sit to consider the pros and cons between the Dasara and the Birthday Sessions of the Assembly and after the Committee's due consideration, the subject may be placed before the Assembly during the Birthday Session for final decision and Royal assent. The Legislative Council and the Representative Assembly may be amalgamated.

SUBJECT No. 69.

Mysore Civil Service examination.

Messrs. A. Ananthiah, Shimoga Taluk; A. Shamanna, Shimoga Municipality and C. Subba Rao, Shimoga District Board.

Summary of Representation.—The present system of appointing a large number of candidates that pass the Mysore Civil Service examination is not satisfactory. It is apprehended that men of very ordinary attainments will flood the Civil Service, giving room for deterioration and dissatisfaction in men of approved service. Not more than three of the best successful candidates may be appointed at a time.
